AMBER -STATE PRESIDENT

My "Each One Reach One" Community Service Project is distance learning care-packages for teachers during the COVID-19 virus' progression, schools have been closed. In my school district we have never before done distance learning and it is a new experience for the teachers. To help them, I will make packages containing sticky notes, pencils, and pens, among other things for the nineteen high school teachers. To support the small businesses in our town, our chapter will also be purchasing treats from Gathering Grounds, our local coffee shop, for all 35 staff members currently at the high school. I believe that it is important to give back to the staff for putting in the time and effort to help students learn and grow. This project will show the staff that their efforts are not going unnoticed. Long-distance learning can be used for the remainder of time we cannot go back to school due to COVID-19 and for any other future school closures such as weather related closings.

ELLIOT-STATE PRESIDENT ELECT

When this epidemic started people started to freak out. We started to get scared of what was to come. Then our schools closed and started to give the idea of distance learning. The only problem with this was not everyone everywhere has the technology for this. Being I live in one of the poorest counties in Minnesota, we have a lot of people what don't have the technology. So I went on a search through my house and found 2 laptops that my family did not use anymore. I asked my mom to help and we completely reset the computer's and searched for a couple of families that could use it. We found 2 families that had a lot of kids but no way to be involved in distance learning due to a lack of technology. We donated these laptops and are looking for anyone else that can donate to other people. A facebook group was created to compile these donations and get them to the deserving families. So let's each reach one and do what we can for our neighbors.

Before this all started we had a routine and we had people we talked to everyday. We are starting to get a new routine, but we can all get lonely when we have to be quarantined. There are many residents of nursing homes who aren't able to get visitors anymore for the safety of the residents. One thing we can do to try to help the residents feel better is to call them. This is a good compromise because this allows residents to have a little more human interaction while still helping them be safe.

JAMES-STATE VP OF OUTREACH

Now that most of our events and lives have been cancelled we need to still think of ways that we can help our community while still staying safe. The current Miss Morris Area Nicole Gillespie has an amazing idea that I would like to build off of. She said we should be writing letters, coloring pictures, and then sending these to our elderly or someone who maybe is not getting visited as much due to this virus. My goal for myself and others is to send letters to different nursing homes so they know that we still can talk to each other even if it is through the mail. This can be such a simple way to reach out and support your community!

HAILEY-STATE SECRETARY

During this time of need, it can seem like there isn't much we can do. The elderly especially are at a high risk of becoming infected by the COVID-19 virus, so I decided I should do my part to help the elderly in my family, my grandparents. In order to help keep my grandparents healthy, and have no need to leave their house, I decided I would visit each of them and get their grocery lists. After I got their lists, I went out to the store in order to get the groceries they needed so that they could keep themselves away from any chance of getting the virus. Something as little as this can be a huge help to people, particularly to the people at a higher risk of becoming infected, like the elderly or those with previous health conditions.

TRIANN- STATE VP OF RESOURCE DEV.

I will be supporting small businesses. Growing up in a town of 200 people, small businesses are all we have. With the hair salons, and restaurants being shut down they need all the extra revenue they can get. While they're shut down, there's less travel coming though so gas stations are struggling. I bought a gift certificate from my hair stylist to use in the future. I have gone to my local restaurant and ordered food for take out. When I did this, I left a tip that matched my bill rather than a normal 20% tip. Waitresses in my town are surviving off of their tips. With the restaurant being closed, they aren't making the tips they normally would, so I wanted to help them. I also went and filled up at the local gas station, rather than going to a chain business and using my rewards card. When I was filling my tank up, I also purchased a gift card. This gives the gas station revenue now, when they need it the most. I will use the gift card when this pandemic is over and the businesses are back to normal. This is a time of need for everyone, if you can, I want to encourage you to give back to your community.
